SPRING approach to achieving better nutrition during the first 1,000 DAYS

With these strategies...
- Strengthen policy, advocacy, and stewardship for nutrition
- Promote communications and other approaches to social and behavioral change
- Enhance systems and capacity for delivery of quality nutrition services
- Foster integration of agriculture and nutrition
- Engage in strategic partnerships with the public and private sectors
- Expand learning for designing, planning and managing effective nutrition programs and these principles...

- Country owned
- Scalable
- Multi-sectoral
- Community-directed
- Gender-equitable

SPRING will achieve these results...
- Improved country programs, policies, and systems to scale up high impact nutrition interventions
- Expanded global evidence base, advocacy platforms, and policies for improving nutrition that contribute to these outcomes...

- Increased access to nutritious and diverse foods
- Improved maternal and child care practices
- Increased access to quality nutrition services and a healthy environment and these impacts.

- Stunting and anemia prevented
